When I seen Cassie's post about Darla passing today I was so struck with sadness. I haven't seen Darla for many years, some reason we lost touch, but I always found myself thinking about her countless times. Darla was my friend from school and my neighbor back when she was first married to Doug. Darla had a infectious happiness every time we were together. She was so nurturing and caring to everyone she was around. I always looked up to Darla and she made a impact on me at a very young age. I can still see her beautiful smile and hear her adorable laugh. Rest well my friend and may peace, love and harmony be with your family. I was lucky to have known you.
