Working with Rose was always so much fun, and she always had some story to tell, or some wisdom to share. I have missed her through all of these years.

My sympathy to all of you. Losing a parent is tough but you know she is at peace. She can tell stories about the pat to her sisters, brothers, husband and her friends that have gone before her. I will remember her infectious laugh when she was at her sisters place and they were telling their childhood stories.
